5101:2-12-20: Supervision (E)

Substantiated

Code

This rule states the supervision of children is the function of actively observing and guiding a child or group of children. This includes being aware of and responsible for the activity of each child, as well as being physically present and near enough to intervene if needed. Supervision means child-care staff members have knowledge of which children they are responsible for at all times and their needs, as well as accountability for their care. Children shall be within sight and hearing of child-care staff members. No child shall ever be left alone or unsupervised. When caring for school children, the rule permits less stringent guidelines for their supervision, such as allowing the school children to run errands or leave the center for specific activities, should the center choose to make that part of their policy.

Allegation

The complainant alleged that a child was found alone walking down the street away from the center with no supervision. The police were called. They came to where the child was found and brought the child back to the center.

Investigative Method(s)

Onsite inspection conducted, Telephone call to center, Discussion/interview with administrator(s)

Findings/Corrections - Serious Risk

During the inspection, it was determined that children were not supervised, in that a child was left unattended when he left the playground on his own and walked away from the center.. Children must be supervised and within sight and hearing of a child care staff member at all times. Please provide training to staff in this area, and submit a written description of the corrective action taken.
